About me

I Believe my passion for cutting-edge web development will be a great asset. I have been working on personal web projects. I have recently finished a Web & Mobile Development course at triOS College with a 80% average including an internship at voices.com, During my time there I touched almost every part of their web site, working with the team to bring the design, user experience and mobile view up to the model standard. I love finding elegant solutions to big complex problems and this is where I excel.

I am a great team player, friendly and professional. I know you will be impress with my ability to quickly absorb technical information and training. I learn fast and I am able to apply what I have learn.
